DEBT BURDENS.

In the number and size of our debts we can beat the world. France will take the premium for paying, we probably lead all all other nations in promises to pay. We are mortgaged people. Look at New York city; with a million of inhabitants it owes one hundred and fifty million dollars, while London, with four million people, owes only thirty million. Boston's debt is greater than that of London.—The thirty chief cities of the United States, containing less than five million people, aggregate debts of nearly five hundred million dollars. The twenty chief cities of England, with a population of six million, owe only one hundred million than the debt of New York alone.—But then they don't have so much ring-rule of the other side of the water and they are old fogies over there.

It costs Great Britten five hundred million a year for government, queen, princes, colonies, India, army, navy and all. It cost us more than six hundred million a year to govern ourselves. The taxes and debts of our States, continues and cities, are annually larger than the total revenue of the British Empire.--Christian Era.

A heavily laden man wedding his devious way along the thoroughfare last night, and nearly monopolizing a sidewalk with his tangent transits, said to a wayfarer who scrutinized him rather too closely, "Needn't look at me so hard; I ain't drunk, only got the 'hiccups' so bad I can't walk straight that's all:'

A man may occasionally kiss the wrong woman by mistake, but when he makes a practice of it, the right woman finds it out, and that's what bothers him.

WHAT MIGHT ASTONISH A MODERN BELLE.

Imagine what a sensation a lady would create in these times should she make her appearance dressed in the following costume, a description of which is taken from "Malcom's Anecdotes.' A black silk petticoat, with a red and white calico border; cheerry colored stays, trimmed with blue and silver; a red and dove-colored gown, flowered with large trees; a yellow satin apron, elaborately trimmed; a muslin head-dress with lace ruffler; a black silk scarf and a spotted silk hood. 'Such was the costume worn by a lady in 1708.' Further on we read of ladies' head dresses costing from one hundred to two hundred dollars. A great deal has been said about the extravagance of women of the present day, but the modern belle would stand aghast should she be asked to pay two hundred dollars for a bonnet; and it is doubtful whether the expensive head gear referred to was any more becoming to the wearer than the jaunty and stilish hats worn by the 'girl of the period'.—Sunday Times and Messenger.

THE HILLSBORO MILITARY ACADEMY.

The Raleigh News says, we present to our readers the above illustration of the buildings known as the Hillsboro Military Academy, and erected under the supervision of late Col. Chas. C. Tew in the year 1858. A full history of the Institution has been before the public, and we will not weary them with facts antecedent to the present year farther than to state that the association which existed between Messrs Horner and Graves who revived the school in such vigor in the winter of 1874 was dissolved by the retirement of Mr. James H. Horner, who returned to Oxford, leaving Mr. R. H. Graves, the remaining associate, to bear alone the burdens and honors of the institution.

Whilst the public may regret the dissolution of so distinguished an association any inferences unfavorable to the successful prosecution of so important an undertaking based upon the withdrawal of either the one or the other of the distinguished gentlemen would be misplaced. Each, in his several capacity, was able to build up for himself a reputation not bounded State limits. Conjointly, they presented a combination of surpassing strength and influence. Disunited again, they retain all the fruits of their long experience, and all the confidence acquired by their long and useful devotion to the sacred cause of education.

Therefore when Mr. Graves is left alone in charge of the institution, it is with full reliance upon his own powers and reputation to sustain it successfully. And he has in his long career as instructor, given proof of his profoundness in learning, in his capacity to impart the results of his own acquisitions, and in his ability to enforce wise and wholesome discipline, that the public will not hesitate to confer on him the same confidence they gave to the associated names of Horner and Graves.

Mr. Graves is no tyro as a teacher. Graduating at the University of North Carolina with distinction, he was for a number of years tutor of Mathematics in that institution. He resigned that position after most useful and acceptable service, and after the acquirement of a high reputation as a Mathematician and skill as an instructor, to accept the Professorship of Mathematics in the Caldwell Institution in the town of Hillsboro, then under the charge of that veteran teacher Dr. Wilson. Mr. Graves remained here until the institution, which was under the more immediate charge of the Presbterian Church, was removed to Greensboro, making in Hillsboro, as he did in whatever position he was placed, friends whom the long laps of time has not moved from him, and who in after years welcomed his return in the same capacity with undiminished confidence.

After the closing of the Caldwell Institute at Hillsboro, Mr. Graves accepted a similar position in 'Samuel Davis' Institute at Halifax C. H; Va. and after holding it for a term, he was invited to return to Hillsboro to take sole charge of the academy their. Here he remained six or seven years, and taught with distinguished success, and received marked approval. The late Gov. Graham put under his charge five of his sons, and was most emphatic in his endorsement of the character and success of Mr. Graves as a teacher.

After leaving Hillsboro, Mr. Graves took charge of the Bellevue School in Granville county, which for twelve years was conducted with success, and was only discontinued because the necessities of war demanded the tearing up of the Clarksville Railroad for military purposes, thus cutting off the school from accessibility, and interfering materially with its success, and by invitation of Mr. J. H. Horner, Mr. Graves went to Oxford and united in forming the celebrated association of Horner and Graves which was continued for several years at Oxford, and afterwards at Hillsboro, until the end of the session recently closed.

Through so long and varied experience, had in Virginia and North Carolina, Mr. Graves has maintained a character of unvarying excellence as a teacher, enlarging his store of learning, increasing his knowledge of character, becoming each year more apt, because more experienced, and confirming, at the same time, by the uniform consistency of his own elevated character the good will and confidence of all who know him.

And he is now so well known that it seems superfluous to name him to call attention to him. For he educated one generation and its sons crowd upon him to draw their stores of knowledge from the same fountain. Taking charge of the Hillsboro Military Academy with the whole responsibility of its character and success imposed upon him he is well able to support the one and secure the other. Life long devotion to a single object has endeared him to his pursuit. Years of observation have ripened his experience. And time has found the value of principles which under all conditions of adversity or prosperity have maintained their uniformity of consisteney. The enlightened teacher and the accomplished christian gentleman find a perfect union in the character of Mr Graves, and therefore his success as the Principal of the Hillsboro Military Academy is assured.

Mr Graves, however, has wisely divided a burden which is too heavy for any one man, by associating with him gentlemen of undoubted qualifications and approved experience, and whatever of character the school of Horner and Graves had obtained will be fully sustained by the able administration which now directs the fortunes of the Hillsboro Military Academy.

OLD STANDING DISEASES OF EVERY KIND CURED.

[Testimonial from Rev. J. C. Baxter, of Galveston.]

Ozoneua, an offensive disease in the Nose—I had a miserable disease in my nose for nineteen years. Some physicians call it purulent catarrh. It commenced with a little soreness in the upper part of the nose, some pain and burning a discharge of yellow matter; finally scabs, the shape of the inside of the nose, began to come out, which relieved me a few hours. It polluted my breath, and made the room unbearable. It finally destroyed the partition bone, letting my nose sink in. In this condition I went to Dr. Jones, who gave medicine which quite destroyed the offensive smell in an hour, and cured the disease in three months. As there are many with the same offensive disease, I write you this testimonial, which you may use as you like J. C. BAXTER.

Dr. Jones is now practicing at the Humphrey House, Goldsboro, N. C. where he can be consulted on all difficult and delicate diseases until Feb 2nd.

AN EDITOR OF 1775.

In 1775 there were four newspapers published in New York. Rivington's Royal Gazetteer was the subservient tool of the British authorities. The Mercury, published by Hugh Goine, was a time-server and trimmer. Anderson's Constitutional Gazette was born and died in 1775, and had no influence whatever. The New York Journal, published by John Holt, was the sturdy and unpurchasable organ of the sons of Liberty. Its editor fled the city after the disastrous battle on Long Island, and he was heard of afterward as publishing his paper at one and another of the towns on the Hudson under circumstances that would have appalled a less determined man. In the month of August, 1777, while at Esopus, he printed an advertisement, in which he proposed to take any kind of country produce in the way of trade.

His prospectus reads very quaintly: And the printer, being unable to carry on his business without the necessaries of life, is obliged to affix the following prices to his work, viz: For a quarter of news, twelve pounds of beef, pork, veal, or mutton, or four pounds of butter, or seven pounds of cheese, or eighteen pounds of fine flour, or half a bushel of wheat, or one bushel of Indian corn, or half a cord of wood, or 300 wt. of hay, or other articles of country produce as he shall want them, in like proportions, or as much money as will purchase them at the time; for other articles of printing work, the prices to be in proportion to that of the newspaper. All his customers, who have to spare any of the above, or other articles of country produce, he hopes will let him know it, and afford him the necessary supplies, without which his business here must very soon be discontinued." It is gratifying to be able to state that the sturdy patriot survived the Revolution, and lived to revisit the city, of which he had been postmaster in 1775. His patriotic labors and sufferings justly entitled him to the following epitaph: 'A due tribute to the memory of John Holt, printer to this State, a native of Virginia, who patiently obeyed death's awful summons on the thirtieth of January, 1784, in the sixty-fourth year of his age. To say that his friend bewail him, is useless; that all regret him, unnecessary; for that the merited every esteem is certain. The tongue of slander cannot say less, though justice might say more.' Such an epitaph inscribed over the dust of an editor, who had also held a commissions as postmaster, opens a wide field of emulation to the journalists and officials of these latter day.—Scribner for January.

BRONCHITIS AND CATARRH.—The following extract of a letter from a grateful patient speaks for itself:

Editors Telegraph and Messenger: Seeing your recommendations of Dr. Jones, and being a dreadful sufferer with catarrh and bronchitis, I availed myself of his peculiar treatment a month ago, and I have thanked you and him, ever since—for I feel his skill has saved my life—the good he has done me I cannot describe.

MRS. JULIA RANSEAU,
Near Elijah, Gilmer Co; Ga.

Dr. Jones who cured this lady is now restoring the diseased to health and the blind to sight straightning deformed eyes and limbs at the Humphry House Goldsboro, N. C. where he remains until Feb 2nd.

A darkey who was stoping to wash his hands in a creek, didn't notice the peculiar actions of a goat just behind him, so when he scrambled out of the water and was asked how it happened, he answered; 'I dunno zactly; but peared as ef de shore kinder h'isted and frowed me.'

THE MAN WHO LIED.

A Handsome Take off on the Men who Lie for the Fun of Being Heroes.

There is a class of men who love to sit around the stove of a country grocery of a winter's evening and exchange lies. M. Quad, the wag of the Detroit Free Press, hits off this class in the following story:

One evening when the winter blasts moaned saddly across the street corners, and the captains of the ferryboats wore anxious looks, seven or eight vessel owners and "laid up" lake captains sat around a cheerful base burner, in a saloon near the river. After the usual amount of grawling about the weather one of them told a story. There might have been an ounce of truth in it, but the crowd felt certain that the one ounce was offset by twenty-four pounds of the "awfullest kind" of lying. Therefore a second man told a story to beat it, and then a third man beat the second. When the fourth man started out he said,

"Gentlemen, I have also been tough times. When I was sailing the schooner Fortune forty years ago two of us were swept overboard in a storm on Lake Erie one black night. A hatch cover went with us, and it so happened that we both clutched it. It was not large enough to support two. It was captain, he a sailor. I had a family—he had none. I shouted to him to quit his hold, and when he would not, I reached over, clutched his throat, and held on till his fingers loosened, and he went to the bottom of the lake! It was twenty miles off Point Betsey, and with a shrill, wild shriek, which yet lingers in my ears, the poor wretch went to his death! May the Lord forgive me!

With his chair tilted against the wall, a lanky, sunflowerish chap had been nodding his head right and left, as if sleeping. As the captain's narrative was concluded the stranger rose up and solemnly said.

'I am that man!'

The crowd looked at him in astonishment, and he continued.

'I landed on Point Betsey next morning time for breakfast, and I swore a solemn oath I'd lick you for choking me if I had to live a hundred years to do it!

'You can't be the man,' replied the captain, looking suspiciously at the fellow's big fists; 'it was forty years ago.'

'I know it was, and for forty years I've been aching to lick you out of your boots!'

The captain had lied, but he didn't wan't to own it, and he said'

'That sailor's name was Dick Rice'

'Kerect! bowed the stranger; 'that's my name!'

'But he was taller than you.'

'Being in the water so long that night I shrunk just a foot! was the cool rejoinder'

'Well, I know you can't be the man,' said the captain'

'I am the man, and now I'm going to maul you to pulp! No man can choke me and then brag about it!'

He sailed in and upset the captain, but was then set upon by the whole crowd. He got into the eye of the wind and hung there for a time, but presently he paid off a little, got the wind on his quarter, and went at it to lick ten times his weight in old hars. He was a very ambitious man, and those who could get out doors got out, and those who couldn't offered him a gallon of whisky to come to anchor. He furled his sails on this understanding, and as he set his glass down for the third drink he wiped his bleeding ear and remarked.

'When a man tries to sacrifice me in order to save hiluself he don't know who he's fooling with!

He was the biggest liar of them all, but he made the most out of it.

Editors Telegraph and Messenger: Allow me to tell the readers of the Telegraph and Messenger that I was an intense sufferer with vertigo, sick headache and general female complaints for thirty years, until a month ago I placed myself in the professional care of Dr Jones, at the Humphrey House, who has cured me and to whom I would recommend all who are suffering with this terrible disease.

Miss. Mary Monery,
Second St. Wilmington.

A painful trans-action—getting out of bed in one's sleep, and walking out of a third story window.

Never take your Christianity from Christians, but ask yourself, 'How would the Lord have me act?' and follow him.

When Simpkins died, he died poor, although he left three hundred thousand dollars. None of it belonged to him, you see.

Why is a glazier in danger of becoming intemperate? Because he must always have his glass before he can begin his day's work. And then his day's work begins.

A Connecticut gentleman, on being introduced to a newly married man, who had found his wife in the nut meg State, congratulated him warmly, saying: 'These Connecticut girls make excellent wives, I've had four of 'em.'

WEDNESDAY.....JAN. 19. 1876.

A UNIVERSAL AMNESTY.

It is impossible to bring the Northern mind up to the pitch of generous liberality when it will forego all the animosities of the past. The pleasure of nursing revenge is too much to surrender, and the profit of turning it to advantage too great to yield up even to the demands of a wise magnanimity. A party threatened with ruin, will not cast loose any weapons that have been useful in the past, however unreasonable or ungenerous their present use, and the facility with which, for party purposes, the excitable mind of the Northern mind has been roused to fury by recalling the terrible incidents of the war, or by the recital of Southern outrages furnish a lesson too important to be thrown away.

Accordingly, we find, that while Morton harps upon Mississippi in one House, and uses his best endeavors to undo the work which has liberated that State from the thraldom of the negro and the carpet-bagger, in the other House, Blaine takes up the story of the past and seeks to revive the waning courage of his party by arousing the half forgotten hatred to Jefferson Davis.

The debate on the Amnesty bill which excludes Mr. Davis from its beneficent operations drew from Benj. H. Hill of Georgia one of the most masterly vindications of the South which has been heard on the floor of the House of Representatives since the war. It must have surprised the Republicans who have ruled so long with domineering insolence to hear a Southern Statesman speak with the voice of an equal; to speak as one having the rights of American citizen; to speak as one, who, vindicating his own section, vindicated the whole American people by ascribing to them a nobility of soul and generosity of sentiment which the little natures of such narrow bigots had never been able to recognize. For once the tide of hatred was driven back, the spirit of malignity rebuked.

Mr. Hill's speech will be of immense service to the South. Its grand eloquence restores the prestige of Southern talent in the House. Its bold defence of Southern principles and Southern actions proclaims the undying spirit of the South. Its effective refutation the assertions of Mr. Blaine illustrates the fearless determination to maintain the truth, and its declaration of loyal devotion to the whole country shows that patriotism is not altogether a Northern virtue Only such men as Mr. Blaine repress it, because they make adhesion to the hateful creed of a by-gone day a test of true fidelity to the country.

Let this one idea become fixed in the minds of the people—that their only hope for reasonable prosperity is, in the change of parties in the administration of the affairs of the goverament. The party in power has ruled too long not to have learned too much that is ruinous to public welfare. And this is specially so, since its majority has always been so large as to have been defiant of all restraint and fearless of all detection. Only of late has any effective effort been made to stop a system of plunder which has not only been connived at by the government, but shared in by some of its most trusted officers. The prosecutions instituted by Secretary Bristow make certain what everybody suspected, and showed that millions upon millions have been stolen year after year, until the treasury has lost enough to carry on the government even with its present enormous expenses, for a whole year, while to supply the deficiences caused by this robbery the people have been cruelly taxed out of their hard earnings, made doubly hard by the general prostration of business caused by ignorance of finance in the party government, and by a wasteful extravagance that has demoralized every industry.

It may be said, that the work of reform has begun, that the work of detection is opened up, that the conspirators against the public revenue are brought to punishment, and the work of plunder is stopped. But this is a weak trost. Who can tell when the only reformer that has yet appeared on the Republican side will be stopped in his work? We know that he has not the hearty co-operation of the President. We know that even a feeling of hostility against Bristow is charged against him. We know that the efficient prosecutor of the whiskey frauds in St. Louis has been removed, ostensibly because he spoke disrespectfully of the President; really because he knew enough to convict the President's private Secretary and confidential friend, Gen. Babcock. If Bristow is removed, who in the Republican party is fearless enough to continue that for which Bristow was punished? And as this is the solitary instance of investigation on the part of the administration, as it is against the will of the President, and as the prosecutor is likely to be thwarted, if not punished, it is clear that the people must look elsewhere for relief and reform than in the Republican party.

They must change their rulers, and their rulers must cease to be masters. They must become servants, as the constitution originally designed them to be.

BAD BLOOD.

There is nothing that party will not avail itself of to carry its ends; there is no weapon however dangerous that a party leader will not use to fill the measure of his ambition. The debate last week in the House of Representatives developed the fact that Blaine, the Republican leader of the House was not only willing to revive all the unpleasant recollections of the war, but to stir up to their original bitterness all the fierce passions of the North, that hatred to the South, may again become the watchword of party and his aims for the presidency be guided thereby. The amendments to Mr. Randalls bill of Amnesty, offered by Blaine excluding Jefferson Davis from the operations of it was disengenuous, because last winter Mr. Blaine voted for a bill which made no exceptions. This winter, he is no concealed aspirant for the presidency, and the chance to inflame the northern mind by the use of the name and deeds of Mr. Davis was too tempting to be thrown away. Mr. Blaine's stock of capital is so small that it must be carefully husbanded. He has only the School question which he competes with Grant, and he has the 'bloody shirt' which he wrests with Morton. His amendment to Randalls resolution shows him trying to get the larger fragment.

It is a painful feature of political life, that the exigencies of individual success so often demand the sacrifice of a nations' peace. Personal needs override considerations of a peoples wants. Peace and happiness weigh but lightly in the balance against the counterpoise of private interest.

All the ground so painfully gained on the hard road to national conciliation, and through that, to national prosperity, is about to be lost, that a political aspirant may build his fortunes on the ruins of public welfare. And bad blood is again stirred up and the growing friendliness turned again into enmity, that Blaine's star may outshine the waning lustre of the planets under whose favoring influences Grant and Morton might hope to thrive.

But after all Blaine forgets that the people may think for themselves, and after having tasted the sweets of a renewed peace, may prefer still to enjoy its fruits, and turning aside from this new herald of strife; set up for themselves one they will choose as their leader.

THE SOUTHERN PLANTER AND FARMER.

We are in receipt of the January number of this old and standard Southern Agricultural Journal, and its contents show no decline in its vigor Its career dates back thirty-five years, and it has numbered among its constant contributors, in days gone by, such names as Ruffin, Taylor, Sampson and Gilmer. In re-adjustment of our agricultural economy, induced by the results of the war, we need the counsel of every man who has secured success since. In the pages of this journal we find such counsel, indeed, every question of vital interest to us is handled with perfect candor, and in a spirit that must lift up the hearts of many who remain cast down in our Southern country. The present number gives in full the splendid address of B. Johnson Barbour, Esq., before the last meeting of the State Agricultural Society of Virginia, and it should be read by every man in the South. We find in it, also, a masterly article (one of a series by "Civis"), on the "Public School in its Relations to the negro." In fact it contains all a farmer would like to see, and we trust our friends will avail themselves of the aid it offers them in so many ways. The price is but $2 per annum, for which is furnished, during the year, over seven hundred pages of first-class reading matter. Published at Richmond, Virginia, by Dr. L. R. Dickinson.

The Hon. A. M. Waddell pronounced a handsome Eulogy on Tuesday last in the House of Representatives in honor of the late Andrew Johnson. Mr. Waddell was selected to speak on behalf of North Carolina of which State Mr. Johnston was a native, and he acquitted himself very handsomely.

Our representative, the Hon. J. J. Davis is taking an honorable and useful part in the transactions of Congress, and is destined to reflect honor upon his constituents. Like all Southern members he has been in no haste to obtrude himself, but has shown that he has the abilities with which the people credited him with when they gave him so handsome a majority.

Montreal, Jan. 11.—There is good reason to believe that Tweed is living with friends in the upper part of the city.

The Constitutional Amendment limiting the Presidency to one term of six years is before the Senate Committee. It is no question a wise provision which would have saved the country many troubles if it had been originally engrafted into the Constitution. For the chief business of each President has been to employ his first term in securing a nomination to a second, and in Grants case, to a third. It is a proposition we think very humiliating to the manhood of the American people, that in the proposition now under consideration it is thought prudent to mollify Grant by letting his present term be extended two years longer so as to make his the first term of six years. The country has had enough of him, and it ought to have the courage to say so. It is a submission to his will that will embolden him to set aside even the force of the new amendment. Well did Frank Blair say "Grant will never quit the White House willingly."

We learn from the Correspondence of the Albemarle Times, that at the close of the session at Chapel Hill, Mr. R. H. Hughes of Orange county is named as one of the three who have the highest standing in the Junior class.

New York, Jan. 14.—The ship Harvest Queen, from San Francisco for Liverpool, believed to have been sunk by a collision in the Irish Channel, had a crew of thirty persons, all of whom are lost without doubt. The steamer Adriatic, which reached here Sunday last, collided with a vessel about where the ship is supposed to have been lost on the morning of December 31st, but the Captain of the steamer says he did not regard the affair of sufficient importance to mention on his arrival. The Adriatic only lost her anchor stock, and he thought the ship suffered less. The owners of the ship believe she left Queenstown where she touched for orders on December 30th, but the dispatch first reporting the loss, says she left there January 5th. If the dispatch is correct, of course it could not have been the Harvest Queen which the Adriatic struck. Some of the Adriatic's crew say they heard cries for 'help,' but the Captain of the steamer declares that two boats were lowered and the Adriatic lingered in the vicinity for upwards of three hours but no one was found, the vessel in the meanwhile having glided silently into the darkness One of the Adriatic's sailors says he was waked up by the shock, and that he heard a good deal of fault found with the Captain for not lowering the boats before backing the steamer. He positively denies that the Adriatic has sunk the Harvest Queen and brands the entire story as an idle fiction on the part of the seamen of the steamer.

New York, Jan. 14.—This morning the planing-mill and lumber-yard of Keeney & Snow, in Jersey City, were entirely burned over. The following are the losers: Keeney & Snow, $50,000; Sullivan & Co; sash and blind makers, $1,000; Geo. W. Snow, moulding, $1,500; J. Keeney carpenter, $7,000; Michale Malone, scroll sawing, $1,500; Pennsylvania railroad stables, $2,000; Van Decken & Co; lumber, $2,000. The fire was undoubtedly caused by incendiarism.

Mobile, Jan. 14.—This morning between 12 and 1 o'clock a fire broke out on St. Francis street. The entire block bounded by St. Michael street on the north St. Francis on the south, Royal on the east and St. Joseph on the west, with the exception of the Bank of Mobile, Register's office, the old Western Union Telegraph office, and the old Express office, was destroyed. It is supposed the loss will reach nearly $1000,000. A large portion is covered by insurance.

Lynchburg, Jan. 14.—A young man named McCormick, a brakeman on the Lynchburg and Danville railorad, lost his life this evening by being knocked from the passenger train, which ran over his body, between Otter and Lynch's station.

Lynchburg, Jan. 14.—Information received here to-day states that the residence of the late Judge Robertson, at Mount Athos, Campbell county, was entirely destroyed by fire last night. Loss not known The family made a narrow escape with their lives.

London, Jan. 11.—A name board marked 'Harvest Queen' has been washed ashore near Cairnson Point, Ireland, and some large yards near Bannow, in the same vicinity. The American ship 'Harvest Queen" left San Francisco August 25th and arrived at Queenstown December 29th. She sailed thence for Liverpool, on the 5th of January, and it is feared she has been lost with all hands.

Columbus, Jan. 11.—In the House today a resolution declaring against any division of the school fund in the interest of any particular religious sect, was unanimously adopted.

Detroit, Jan. 11.—Four lake captains named respectively Craig, Dare, McCormick and one unknown were drowned today while attempting to reach Point au-Pelee, in a small boat.

Columbus, Ohio, Jan. 11.—A bill has been introduced in the Legislature imposing a fine of fifty dollars for taking the name of God in vain.

Harrisburg, Jan. 12.—The report of the State Treasurer, submitted to the Legislature to-day, shows the debt of the State after deducting the assets of the sinking fund, to be $13, 766,564.

Atlanta, Jan. 12.—The Legislature met, to-day. The Governor in his message says the valid bounded debt of the State is $8,-605,500.

TOBACCO MARKET.

The very dry weather of last week made the offerings here small. Prices however are well sustained. And the prospect for the success of the Warehouse enterprise is very high. Let the farmers be assured that they will get as good prices here as elsewhere, and will not have to go far from home for a market.

Five cents reward. See Ad. and get your money.

See notice of change of precincts.

We notice a great improvement going on in front of Kirklands store. A new brick side walk is being laid. If there is anything in Hillsboro more to complain of than the, mud it is the side walks. Which are universally execrable, and are without excuse, because there is a superabundance of good material in all the hills round-about.

H. A. Reams, Durham, present a change in their ad, which see. They still continue the enormous business they have been doing during the past four or five years.

The new Hotel at Durham has been rented to Mr. Simon Hayes of Kittrells who is now preparing to accommodate the public the house being nearly finished.

School Notice.

We call attention to the ad. of the Rev. Dr. Harrell, who opens a school in the "brick school-house" for boys and girls. The Reverend gentleman has excellent qualifications as a teacher and we wish him success.

Mrs. Harrell will also give private instructions in music.

Dr. J. A. JONES.

See first page for D. J. A. Jones' notices and opinions of the press upon his marvelous success in the treatment of bronchitis, affections of the eyes, ears &c, and other diseases to which the human frame is subject.

The Louisville Courier in combination with the Hillsboro Recorder makes a strong combination. Only three dollars for both papers. Send in your three dollars, to this office, and get the two papers for the year. See Ad.

We invite our readers' attention to advertisement of Dr. Wade & Co. in this issue. Read the various testimonials pertaining to "Dr. Wade's Liver Corrector," which is known to be the best remedy extant for Dyspepsia.

We regret that the stay of our friend C. P. Wharton, in our midst will only be ten days longer. We know him to be a first class artist, and hope the people of the town and vicinity will take advantage of this opportunity to have their picture taken. His work is as good as you can have done in the cities; prices much lower. Call and see him.

THE TOBACCO WAREHOUSE.

We call attention to the Ad. of E. H. Pogue &co, which will be found on our first page. The company means business, and will do everything to meet the expectations of the public. They act upon the principle which is patent to everybody, but never wisely acted upon, that Hillsboro is the natural tobacco market of this section. Without any jealousy of those who have been wiser than ourselves to turn advantages to profit, the firm of Pogue & Co come forward in a fair spirit of rivalship leaving the public to determine for themselves the merits of the Hillsboro market.

Levy offers every inducement in his new ad of this week to those who want every variety of good and cheap goods for ladies use, and for household and family use generally. Study his prices carefully.

Ice.

Last week there was a slight touch of winter, and ice enough was formed to permit the filling of some of the ice houses in town. The majority, of them however, are still empty.

We regret to hear of the death of one of the old citizens of this county. Mr. Warden Riley died on Sunday morning at an advanced age, between eighty five and ninety. He was a native of Orange County.

Barn Burnt.

Hugh Kirkpatrick Esq, of this Vicinity had the misfortune to have his tobacco barn burned some time since with two thousand pounds of tobacco. The fire occured from burning a bundle of tobacco stems in the barn to warm by, the sparks from which ignited the dry leaves over head.

Appointed Marshal. Charlotte Observer: Mr. W. R. Myers, Jr., of this city, has been appointed a United States Marshal, and on yesterday filed a justified bond before Justice W. F. Davidson.

For the Recorder.

MR. EDITOR:—As the columns of your valuable paper are always open and ever ready to give publicity to the progress of Old Orange, and your worthy correspondent, "Sambo" seems to have absconded and left no one to fill his place. I have come to the conclusion, that you would like to hear what is going on about Old Caldwell. In the first place I will inform you that the second session of Dr J. L. Browers School has opened favorably. He has thirty six in attendance now and expects a good many more; the probability is that the present session will reach fifty. Everybody seems to be alive, and hard at work. S H Jordan Esq; and L. W. Hall, are building rooms for boarders. J. W. McKee and G. R. Wilson sr, are procuring lumber to build. A great many of the old houses in the neighborhood, are receiving a new dress in some way. "Hard times has been the cry" about the scarcity of money so long, that I believe our people have come to the conclusion, that it won't take half as much to supply their demands as it used to do, provived, you keep it a going. Let every man that owes his neighbor a dollar pay it, and one dollar managed in that way will pay ten dollars where ten dollars don't pay one if you keep it in your pocket. And be almost afraid to take it out to look at it yourself. For fear of its getting away from you.

As I have somewhat digressed from the subject I commenced upon, I will conclude by saying to parents, and guardians having children under their care to educate, that they would do well to patronize Dr. Browers school. It is in a good moral healthy neighborhood, free from vice, and convenient to good churches of different denominations. I will take the liberty to say that this school will be free from all sectarianism. Dr. Brower has procured the services of an accomplished lady, to teach music on the organ, and will give lessons at reduced prices.

A word to the wise is sufficient. Should "Sambo" see this communication he will know that we have not forgot him yet, and would like to know where he is.

Respectfully,
You Know.

For the Recorder
Jan, 1st 1876.

MR. EDITOR: It is a well known fact, that the people of large sections of Orange & Caswell counties, in order to get to Hillsboro, Chapel Hill, Durham, or Raleigh, have to travel a country road (not worked) to avoid Stubb's hill. It is well known by old men that heavy loaded wagons have been traveling country roads to avoid said hill for fifty years. Now this whole section is perhaps twenty five miles from south to north, the trade is valuable, and it deserves to be looked after by the people of Hillsboro, and the people of Durham. Most of the trade would go to those towns if it could get there. If this state of things is to continue, our people are isolated from the railroad, and cut off from trade. Would it not be wise in the Legislature to set off a new county, and allow the people to build a narrow gague railroad, or turnpike, to lead somewhere and let them set up for themselves. They can make fine tobacco enough in one year to foot the bill.

If the people of Orange County do not care for the trade of their neighbor, they might be moved by humanity, and cause a notice to be placed at the top of the great hill, warning the public of the fate of poor Stubbs, who report says, lost his life going down the hill over one hundred years ago, and gave the hill its name.

A word to the wise is sufficient.

CASWELL.

THE CENTENNIAL OF 1876.

This highly favored country is about to celebrate its hundredth birthday. Under its favored privileges, its citizens have been happy, worshiping God according to the dictates of their own consciences; pursuing their chosen avocations protected; growing rich and prosperous. Some have attained the most exhalted positions from the smallest beginnings. This is particularly applicable to Dr. Tutt's Liver Pills: Ten years ago they had but a limited local reputation, but in this time, aided by scientific research and conscientious business direction, they have attained such a celebrity that there is not a country on the globe that are not known and used. Wherever disease prevails, especially such as result from torpid liver, dyspepsia, costiveness, sick headache, fever and ague, and they are eagerly sought for.

THE ORPHANS.

At the Baptist Church, last Sabbath morning, the Pastor gave the congregation the opportunity of contributing to the "Orphans' Home" at Oxford and Mars Hill.

This was also done in the Sabbath School of the same Church a few Sabbaths ago; and it is the intention of the Baptists of Hillsboro', to remember the Orphans, in this manner, regularly, through the year.

But they do not wish to be alone in this good work. Will not our brethren in the other Churches endeavor to carry out a similar plan in their congregations? Will not every Church and congregation in the State "do likewise"? Remember the needy.

W. B. H.

Varicose Veins—Cured by Dr. Jones, by a specific medicine. All those difficult and delicate diseases not benefited by the common remedies are easily cured by Dr Jones, with pleasant and harmless vegetable medicines prepared only by himself, He remains at the Humphrey House, Goldsboro, N. C. until Feb. 2nd.

CEDAR GROVE N. C. Jan. 15th 1876.

MR. EDITOR, In your issue of 12th inst, you mention me as manager of the Christmas Tree here, on the night of the 20th Dec and state that the tree was for the benefit of the Church. You are evidently not well posted, in regard to our affairs. What has become of your spicy correspondent from this section?

The Sunday School festival was gotten up by a committee of the School and I was not on the committee. The gifts several hundred in number, were distributed among the members of the School. The Church was handsomely decorated brilliantly lighted, presenting a splendid and impressive appearance.

There were over 500 persons present. Just exactly filling the Church, and good order and general enjoyment was observed in every part of the house. A large number of cakes were cut and handed around free, besides 5 bushels mountain apples.

And old batchelors Christmas tree was advertised, but it being leap year, so soon, the young ladies on the committee begged hard that the old fellows be spared the ridicule, and it was left out of the programme.

The S. S. librian solicited contributions for the library and within 25 minutes raised $45,68 besides several books and papers promised. The School numbers now 106 and the Superintendant W. A. Jordan, has, in a very quiet way, overcome every difficulty to be met with in establishing a country Sunday School and has the best organized and most promising School in this section of the State. He expects to have in the spring over 150 members. I would be proud of having been the manager of such a nice little affair as our Tree proved to be, but "honor to whom honor is due"

Yours Truly,
T. C. ELLIS.

REMEMBER THIS.

Now is the time of the year for Pneumonia, Lung Fever, Coughs, Colds, and fatal results of predisposition to consumption and other Throat and Lung Disease. BOSCHEE'S GERMAN SYRUP has been used in this neighborhood for the past two or three years without a single failure to cure. If you have not used this medicine yourself, go to your Druggist Dr. O. Hooker and ask him of its wonderful success among his customers. Two doses will relieve the worst case. If you have no faith in any medicine, just buy a Sample Bottle of Boschee's German Syrup for 10 cents and try it, Regular size Bottle 75 cents Don't neglect a cough to save 75 cents.

WE MUST ALL DIE.

This is a sad fact, and it behooves us to be prepared to die right when the time comes. Few of us expect it until old age overtakes and admonishes us with grey hairs that the time has arrived when we must dye. Then we look around to find out the best way. We will tell you. Use no other dye than Dr. Tutt's and you will dye right. Your grey hairs will disappear like magic, and in thin place you will have glossy, black whiskers, moustache and hair—a perfect imitation of natures, so natural that it can not be detected, and your dyeing expenses will be but one dollar.

TO A GENEROUS PUBLIC.

At a regular meeting of Eagle Lodge No 71. A. F. & A. M. held in their Hall on Friday evening the 7th instant, John M. Blackwood, Thomas Webb, & Charles S. Cooley, were appointed a committee in behalf of the Orphan Asylum at Oxford. Any contributions either in cash, or in kink for the Asylum will be thankfully received, and forwarded direct to the Asylum in the name of the donor, if desired. If you are a patron of the Orphans' Friend, a paper published weekly at $100 per anum, you will see the receipts of each week as they are sent in.

Remember the Orphan. Don't be ashamed of small contributions. The smallest will be thankfully received. Remember the widows mite; it passed not, unnoticed.

RESOLUTIONS OF RESPECT.

Whereas, It has pleased our Heavenly Father in his infinite wisdom and Allwise Providence to take from us our highly esteemed and much loved sister Miss Sue Dickson who departed this life on the 15th day of December 1875.

Therefore be it

Resolved, That, while we bow in humble submission to the decrees of an Allwise Providence in taking from us one who was so consistent and scrupulous in carrying out the vows we have all taken, and such a devoted sister and friend, yet knowing her true worth and character we feel very sensibly our loss and the loss to our whole Order.

Resolved, That conscious of the afflictive nature of this dispensation of Providence to her family, we deeply sympathize and condole with them in this their great bereavement.

Resolved, That a copy of these proceedings be sent to the family of our departed sister and a copy be spread upon the journal of our Lodge and a copy be furnished to the Hillsboro Recorder for publication.

CUT THIS OUT,

IT MAY SAVE YOUR LIFE.

There is no person living but what suffers more or less with Lung Disease Coughs, Colds or Consumption, yet some would die rather than pay 75 cents for a bottle of medicine that would cure them. Dr. A. Roschee's German Syrup has lately been introduced in this country from Germany, and its wondrous cures astonish every one that try it. If you doubt what we say in print, cut this out and take it to your Druggist Dr. O. Hooker, and get a sample bottle for 10 cents and try it, or a regular size for 75 cents.

DIED.

In this county, near Little River Church, on Thursday night,—about 7 o'clock, Mrs. Susan Allison consort of David R. Allison, dec'd. She was a consistant member of the Presbyterian Church. A kind neighbor and loved by all who knew her. She died in hope of a blissful immortality beyond the grave. A large concourse of friends attended her burial. 'Blessed are the dead who die in the Lord.'

TOO THIN.

AS it has been reported, and claimed to be upon reliable authority, that 10,000 lbs. Tobacco was taken in on our first Sale on the 4th inst., and carried to Durham. I think it right to give the facts. We sold on the 4th inst. 15,000 lbs. Tobacco and out of this only 858 lbs. was taken in, and only 393 lbs., was carried to Durhams. Let us have Fair Play, as well as Peace.

In the following well-considered article in the Bure; Carolinian, an able and thoughtful writer gives his views on the above topic.

It has always been argued that the supply of cotton could never exceed the demand, That its cheapness would always force it into various fabrics as a substitute for wool, flax, and silk, and in this way the demand would always be in excess of the supply. The logic of events is rapidly driving us to the conviction that we have been laboring under a delusion. It is manifest that the cotton supply is pressing closely upon the demand, so that the cheapness of the article will no longer force its use in various manufactures as a substitute for flax, wool, or silk. The declaration comes from spinners abroad and at home that cotton goods cannot be manufactured, and that some cheaper process of manufacture must be resorted to, or the raw material must go down. Here is a direct issue made between capital and labor, and we have to meet it squarely.

Improved machinery and reduced wages (and with it, of course, cheaper breadstuffs) or cheaper cotton. Any planter who has enjoyed the experience of cotton planting with the freedman, since the war, must have come to the conclusion that cotton cannot be produced without loss for less than fifteen cents, and he must be a very sanguine individual if he believes times will ever grow any better under our present government.

From all parts of the country we hear of the stoppage of mills, lock outs, strikes, and dissatisfaction with the state of things, of the stagnation in all kinds of productive business, the paralysis of industries, the distresses of those desirous to labor with their hands for the support of their families etc.? We see it in every Southern newspaper that there has been a steady decline of the Southern people in the condition of pecuniary exhaustion since the war, which renders it not only proper, but vitally necessary, that we should look carefully into our system of household economy, etc; and yet we go on in the same beaten track, planting cotton to the exclusion of every thing else—forcing production by all artificial means, and extending the cotton belt up to the very base of the mountains.

Three-fourths of the farmers are unable to strike a lick toward the making of a crop without giving a lien. They give a lien and plant all cotton to buy corn, flour bacon, and mules. Every year it has been growing worse, and the farmers are now more dependent than they were at the surrender, is it not high time to face the danger and make an effort to rescue the agricultural interest from absolute ruin.

Col. Aiken and other writers have placed this subject before your readers in almost every possible shape, but so far to but little purpose, we fear. The great trouble is the apathy of the planter, the unconquerable aversion to get out of the old ruts. He will readily jump at any humbug that promises impossibilities, but he is ever slow to go systematically about any change that requires time, patience, and system.

The remedy is not to be found in any one expedient—but in general reform. We must practice self-denial. We must realize the fact that we are poor, and cannot afford to live as we once did. We must try to live within ourselves as much as possible, and not run to the store for everything. Pitch your crops to make your provisions, and then make all the cotton you can. But don't pick out the poorest fields for your provision crops, and let the grass take them. Plant a few acres, put down the manure, and cultivate well.

Five acres of corn, with thirty bushels cotton seed and one hundred pounds acid phosphate to the acre, will make more than ten planted on poor land, with half the work, and the same may be said of oats.

We have a glorious climate, and more land than we have labor. Cultivate the best land and let the poor rest.

Plough deeper, take more pains in preparation, and you will have less trouble in cultivating. Provide yourself with grass lots—barley and rye patches, millet, or corn lots; use every means to keep out of the corn crib.

You will be surprised to find how well you can utilize these little side lots. You will find it in the long run far better than hauling corn and hay from the depot over bad roads, when the crop needs work, or the horses need rest.

DECREASE OF THE COLORED POPULATION.

The African race on this continent seemed destined to the same melancholy doom as the North American Indian. Their sad problem seems to be solving itself with a rapidity as fearful as certain. Reports and rumors from the great centres of the black population, more or less reliable, have for some time been claiming the attention of medical science; but, until the annual report of the Board of Health of the district of Columbia at the close of the last year, very little statiscally definite as to the increase and mortality of the race at any particular locality had been put forth; but that report was so startling that immediate steps were taken by the more intelligent of the colored men of Washington, by the appointment of a committee of investigation to ascertain the cause. The result was far from satisfactory. Destitution and exposure, imprudence and improvidence, vice and crime, had wrought out their inevitable consequences; that was all. But if last year's report of the Board of Health was startling, that of the current year, just issued, is appalling. The death rate of the white population is reported at less than 17 to the thousand, whilst that of the colored population for the same period is reported at more than 45 to the thousand! The rate of increase of the white population by births over deaths, on the other hand, was 6¼ whilst the decrease of the colored population by deaths over births was nearly 10¼ per 1000 per annum, in each instance!

Comment on the figures are needless. Every one can draw from them his own deductions, and can cypher out how long or how short a time it would take for a race at this rate to become extinct. Increase of mortality decrease of births—the candle is burning at both ends at the same time, and with frightful rapidity. When we consider, that, years ago, it was the boast, that the increase of the colored race, like that of the Israelites in Egypt, far out numbered that of their masters, and demonstrated with mathematical certainly the physiological fact that their physical necessities were abundantly cared for, the sad suspicion now forces itself upon the mind that, though freedom may have been a priceless boon to them in other respects, and one of which no one would now deprive them, it has possibly proved no boon as yet, so far as their mere physical well being is concerned. Man may err as to causes and consequence, but nature never errs.—Virginia Sentinel.

A philosopher asserts that the reason why ladies' teeth decay sooner than gentlemen's is because of the friction of the tongue and the sweetness of the lips.
